How To Play: This game takes at least two people to play. One player writes blank lines for each letter of a phrase. Other players must guess what the letters are. If they guess correctly, fill in the letter on the appropriate line. If they guess it incorrectly, begin to draw a person -- head first, then neck, and so on. If the players correctly guess before the hangman is drawn, they have won the game. Use the alphabet below each hangman game to keep track of what letters have been guessed. Note—It's a good idea to decide on how many body parts your hangman has before you begin playing.
